SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu resigned tonight in a speech in which he blamed South Vietnam's military disasters on U.S. failure to honor President Richard M. Nixon's written promises of aid. The resignation opened the way for possible negotiations of a cease-fire with the Communists who have pushed the front lines to within 20 miles of Thieu's Presidential Palace and have massed 100,000 troops for a final assault. At exactly 8:40 p.m. EDT, Thieu, biting his lip and apparently fighting back tears, said: (Related story, p. 11) In front of the National Assembly, I announce my resignation as president. "Goodbye, my friends," Thieu said and former President Nixon had agreed "on paper" that the United States would provide all necessary aid to South Vietnam to defend itself if Thieu signed the Jan. 27, 1973 Paris peace agreement. Thieu said he had been "satisfied" with the aid that he received from the U.S. and that he never thought a man like Mr. U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger would deliver our people to such a disastrous fate. Thieu said: "As he delivered his televised speech to the nation, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong closed in on Saigon from three sides. The government earlier today abandoned Xuan Loc.

US maintains tie WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford conferred today with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger about the resignation of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, and a spokesman later announced the United States expects to work with Thieu's successor. "President Thieu resigned under the procedures of the South Vietnamese constitution," Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters following the 65-minute meeting between Ford and Kissinger. "The United States expects to be working with the new government."

Saigon rim cracks SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops captured the provincial capital of Xuan Loc today, ending two weeks of government resistance and advancing to within striking distance of Saigon. Military sources said government troops abandoned Xuan Loc this morning and besieging Communists marched into the shell-battered city without a fight. The pullout left a gaping hole in Saigon's defense perimeter. The loss of Xuan Loc, which had become a symbol of government loyalty to a full-scale Communist assault. The retreat from Xuan Loc, 38 miles northeast of Saigon, came hours after Communists captured the provincial capital of Ham Tan, 75 miles east of the capital. The fall of the two cities gave the Communists control of 21 of South Vietnam's 44 provincial capitals and more than two-thirds of the country's territory.

Rebels due US gear By United Press International Thai Foreign Minister Chatchai Choonhavan said today that American military equipment being brought into Thailand by fleeing Cambodian government troops will be turned over to the Khmer Rouge government in Phnom Penh. "Thailand welcomes Cambodia's policy of neutrality," said Chatchai. "We always want Cambodia to be neutral and we will return all of the arms and aircraft brought here by some Khmer refugees. Cambodian troops who fled by air following the fall of Phnom Penh last Thursday arrived aboard at least 20 military planes and helicopters and others brought at least six armored personnel carriers, boats and other arms. In the case of the armored personnel carriers, insurgent troops came to the frontier and demanded the vehicles be turned over to them, but Thai military authorities declined. All of the aircraft and vehicles were provided to Cambodia under American military aid programs. A U.S. military spokesman said today the eventual disposition of the equipment was "a waiting determination."

Buhl man shoots cougar at door BUHL — A full-grown mountain lion was shot by a Buhl man early today after the animal apparently tried to enter his farm house. The carcass of the animal will be sent to the Idaho Fish and Game Department laboratory in Boise to attempt to determine why it was in an apparently starved condition. According to Twin Falls County Sheriff Paul Corder, the cougar apparently tried to scratch its way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Harp, Route 1, Buhl. Corder said Mr. Harp heard a scratching at the back door and then at a window about 7 a.m. He summoned her husband, who shot the animal. Fish and Game Conservationist Lon Teeter, Buhl, said Sharp shot the animal after the family dog found it lying beneath bushes along the side of the house. The full-grown female cougar made no attempt to attack the dog or Sharp. Teeter said. Teeter said the animal was "very thin." He said it did not appear to be pregnant or to be nursing kittens. "It was so far away from anywhere," Teeter said, "it was very unusual for it to be there." He said there were newborn cubs and other very vulnerable stock close by on the Harp farm which were not disturbed. "It didn't seem to make any rhyme or reason — the behavior of the animal," he said. Scratches were found on the back storm door of the Sharp home, he added.

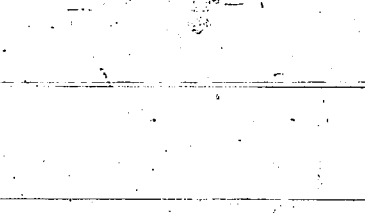

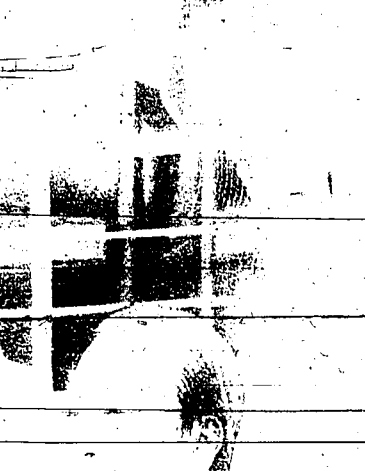

which some persons have called the 1975 Dien Bien Phu. Fifteen minutes after Thieu began his speech antiwar protesters ordered a trip to a cemetery one hour longer than the normal bath in the evening and morning apparently to avoid panic. Saigon's defense forces were placed on full alert. "If the United States had intervened as it should have, we would not be losing province capitals, district capitals," Thieu said. "And we would not be faced with losing our national capital." Thieu said he would hand power to ailing 72-year-old vice president Tran Van Thuong. But it was expected Thuong also would resign. That would hand the presidency to Senate President Tran Van Lam, a political leader who might be able to open peace talks with the Viet Cong before Saigon itself is attacked. Thieu gave no indication whether he would leave Vietnam but most seem officials said they believed he would seek exile "possibly in the United States." "If the Americans don't want to support us any more let them go, get out. Let them forget their humanitarian promises," Thieu said. Thieu's 90-minute ended at 9:25 p.m. EDT. He gestured emphatically throughout the speech. He pounded the lectern frequently and clenched his fist. (Continued on p. 2)

Saigon's Thieu greets rally on happier day TWIN FALLS — Republican National Committeewoman Orriette Sinclair, Twin Falls, is calling for a presidential pardon of Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho. In a joint statement Sunday with David Little, Emmett, national Republican committeeman, Mrs. Sinclair urged Idahoans to launch a strong protest against the still unfair sentence against Hansen. The congressman was sentenced last week to one year in prison with 10 months suspended, for misdemeanor violations of the 1972 Federal Elections Campaign Act. Mrs. Sinclair and Little urged telegrams to be sent to the White House calling for President Ford to suspend Hansen's two month jail term which is set to start May 2. The two Republican leaders said the people of Idaho "gave Hansen a solid vote of confidence"

Supreme Court rejects plea for men's alimony WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court refused again Monday to decide the constitutionality of divorce laws allowing alimony for women but not men. The justices acted in a brief order rejecting the appeal of an Atlanta man who contended the state law barring alimony to men was unconstitutional. The law was upheld by the Georgia Supreme Court. When the Court merely rejects an appeal it doesn't say a reason, but it clearly found nothing substantially wrong in the Georgia court ruling five years ago, the justices rejected another challenge to the same law. Although the Court in recent years has limited application of laws which discriminate on the basis of sex, it has declined to rule them generally unconstitutional. The justices have held that if the discrimination is a rational way to achieve a legitimate legislative goal, it is permissible. Last term, the Supreme Court upheld a Florida law giving widows, but not widowers, a property tax break. The Court said it was clear women do not yet have the same earning power as men, and that limiting the tax exemption to women was a rational way of recognizing the fact. The Georgia Supreme Court returned to the 1974 high court ruling and said similar logic applied to alimony payments. In other alimony rulings, the justices: — Rejected James W. McCord's appeal of his conviction for breaking into the National Convention Headquarters in the Watergate complex in June, 1972. The Court already had rejected an appeal from the same trial by G.

AIM maturing, chairman says, despite criticism

OWYHEE, Nevada (UPI) — John Trundell, the 29-year old chairman of the American Indian Movement, describes his organization as "the extension of the old 'teague' Indian membership."

Trundell, a Sioux living on the Duck Valley Reservation near the Idaho-Nevada border, was interviewed last week by reporter Thomas J. Lewis of The Idaho Statesman.

"AIM is maturing a little bit," Trundell said. "We're coming to the point now where we have a full membership."

Trundell was the national spokesman for AIM when Indians occupied Alcatraz Island in 1969 and was chief of security during the takeover of the Bureau of Indian Affairs office in Washington, D.C. during 1971.

Despite disagreements among tribal leaders, Trundell said 70 percent of the Indian people relate to the AIM philosophy — but he says they may not relate to AIM's tactics.

"We've caught hell from everybody," Trundell said.

"If the community itself did not like us, they'd shut the door."

Trundell and his wife Tina and son Ricardo, 2, live in a white clapboard home, three miles south of downtown Owyhee.

"The real question and issue is what about the system that uses the illegal tactics when it comes to its dealing with issues like alcoholism and other problems," he said.

"These are the tactics we're concerned with. We will not change our philosophy, and tactics are meaningless because you have to be realistic if someone comes after you. If my chances of ending up in an institution are good... then why not stand up and fight?" Trundell said.

Trundell was a high school dropout who attended a two-year college without graduating. He said he was a drunk before he was 21.

The Indians of Duck Valley, he said, had the highest suicide rate in the country in 1970 and he blamed the rate on alcoholism within the community and oppression by the white man.

"Indians who are alcoholics commit emotional suicide," Trundell said.

Idaho newspaper asks resignation

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Statesman newspaper called Sunday for the resignation of H.P. George Hansen, R-Idaho.

In its lead editorial, the newspaper said Hansen, who was sentenced to two months in jail last week for campaign finance violations, should resign his office and a special election should be held.

In speaking to a new election, the editorial said, "This time voters of the Second District would be voting with the knowledge that Hansen had violated the 1971 Campaign Practices Act."

"The editorial said the voters of the district were denied knowledge of the acts while Hansen maintained that he had not committed any serious violations.

"The Hansen conviction and jail sentence are damaging to his standing among his colleagues in the House. The Second District is represented by a Congressman with a watered-down stature," the editorial said.

"Voters in the Second District should have the opportunity to vote again. If they don't want George Hansen to represent them, they can say so. If they do, he should have more influence in Congress over the next year and a half than he would without another election."

Youth delegates back Hansen

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho YMCA Youth Legislature adjourned Saturday afternoon, but not before defeating a resolution calling for the resignation of Rep. George V. Hansen, R-Idaho.

Hansen was sentenced to two months in jail last week for campaign violations.

The legislature came out in favor of environmental matters and it passed a memorial opposing the proposed Idaho Power Co. coal-fired steam generating plant. It also urged a ban on further dams on the Snake River.

"Except for environmental issues, I think we're pretty much like our parents," said Youth Governor Tucker Woodson of Twin Falls.

"We're more liberal on the environment because we're not so influenced by economics. It was the Twin Falls delegation that tried to get the Plant your own garden. See what it's like to be a farmer

First you make sure you've got the land, adequate water to it and the ability to till it. Then all you have to do is buy the seed, the fertilizer, the insecticides and the fungicides. Spend a part of each day watering, weeding, hoeing and over-seeding growth. Then pray a lot for good weather. To understand the farmers' problem multiply these efforts by 1000.

Now once your garden has a crop, all you have to do is harvest it. Idaho's farmers have to harvest, too. Then they must store it, transport it and market it. To city dwellers, that sounds simple, but it's not.

To market agriculture commodities you have to have an iron will and the patience of Job. The price is changing all the time depending on supply and demand. If the supply of the crop you grew is high, then the price is lower. Or if the demand is low, then the price is low. And vice versa. And what about the expense you'd have in fertilizers and the rest?

So you see it's not so easy to be a farmer. To stick all your money in the ground and hope that it pays off.

But every year 27,600 farmers and ranchers do it, and thereby form the cornerstone to Idaho's economy. Agriculture is the state's single most important industry. As such it needs the understanding and support of us all. We have to help keep agriculture viable and productive, to keep our state's economy productive.

For more information about how Idaho farmers and ranchers need you as much as you need them, write Idaho Wheat and Bean Commissioners, Suite M, Owyhee Plaza, Boise, Idaho 83702.

Warning, firm action from Washington needed

O.N.Y. Times Service

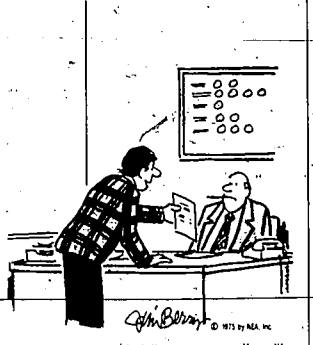

WASHINGTON — In a private conversation with Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, foreign minister of South Vietnam, Vuong Van Bai, stated recently that Saigon was prepared to negotiate a political and military settlement of the war with the North Vietnamese in Paris.

It is hard to imagine that the North Vietnamese, with troops almost within artillery range of Saigon, would agree to negotiate with President Thieu, whose departure would probably do more than anything else to avoid a bloody struggle for the South Vietnamese capital, but this statement at least opens up the bare possibility of a political settlement.

Washington's present effort to stabilize the situation by military means in South Vietnam is no more successful than its previous attempts to "destabilize" the political situation in Chile.

Poor generalship caused Viet collapse

WASHINGTON — An autopsy of the collapse of South Vietnam performed at a high level here points less to the widely presumed culprit, President Nguyen Van Thieu, and far more to a single command blunder in the field which combined with slumping U.S. military aid to produce irreversible trouble.

Falling support from Washington, along with Moscow's blatant backing of North Vietnam, probably insured South Vietnam's eventual fall. But the events of mid-March may have hastened Saigon's doom by years, in a manner magnifying the damaging impact on U.S. policy.

At least, it might merely delay the surrender of Saigon and the capture of General Thieu, but at least it would avoid one last ghastly slaughter in the streets of Saigon.

MOSCOW — Even in Idaho, a state known for its maverick voters, the 1974 election "defies classification," according to Dr. Boyd A. Martin, author of a soon-to-be published study of state voting trends from 1890 to 1974. Martin's "Idaho Voting Trends," scheduled for publication this spring by the University of Idaho Bureau of Public Affairs Research and the UI Research Council, includes voting trend analyses, official statistics on all statewide and congressional races since statehood, and examinations of sectionalism and shifting party strength. Among his other findings, Martin notes Idaho voters are notoriously independent, are more than normally faithful about election participation — Idaho and Utah have the highest percentage of votes cast in elections — and are extremely receptive to third party movements.

"I can't prove it, but I'd wager Idaho is probably the most selective voting state in the nation and our voters the most independent," Martin said. In fact, he added, "The Idaho voter is so independent he doesn't want anyone to know what his politics are. I think if the legislature ever required party registration, the bill would be repealed by referendum."

That Idaho independence showed up in 1948 when Idaho's electoral votes went to Harry Truman. But the 22 counties where the Democrats led the balloting sent Republicans to the state legislature, while the 22 counties where Republican Thomas Dewey was the top-vote-getter sent Democrats.

Part of the so-called "independence," Martin says, stems from Idaho's size; the state is small enough that voters are often acquainted with candidates. But he also believes Idaho voters are "issue minded," carefully studying candidates' statements rather than political tags.

Martin began work on his book in 1956 but it was an on-and-off process as he took on administrative duties as dean of the UI College of Letters and Science, chairman of the UI political science department and finally as Borah distinguished professor of political science. He retired in 1973 and has spent most of his time completing the book.

Martin is reluctant to put Idaho in any political column, but when pressed says the state might be characterized as "51.3 per cent Republican." If voting trends from 1966 to 1972 had continued there "would have been a growth in Republican strength but the 1974 election 'fit no pattern and it's hard to know what will grow out of it.'"

At first glance, he said, it might appear the 1974 election reversed the 1966-72 Republican trend. Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, a Democrat, swept back into office with 70.93 per cent of the vote, a percentage exceeded only by Frank Steunenberg, who in 1896 won with 78.79 per cent.

Democrats also won the offices of lieutenant governor, treasurer, auditor and superintendent of public instruction and Sen. Frank Church won another term, although Martin notes Church "had already proven his ability to win votes against land-slides."

On the other hand, the two Republican candidates for Congress were winners, challenger Wayne Steneberg defeated incumbent Democrat Anthony Park as attorney general, incumbent Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa was re-elected and Republicans, although losing three seats in the state senate and 11 in the house, retained control of the Idaho Legislature by 20 to 15 in the senate and 42 to 28 in the house.

"The real significance of the democratic success in 1974 can probably be explained by the personality and political position of Andrus," Martin said, noting the governor disassociated himself from some of the more extreme planks of the 1972 Democratic state platform and during his term in office has won wide support from many Republicans because of his "conservative fiscal and tax policies."

Andrus' re-election, Martin said, "was a rare case, like the election of James H. Hawley, Ben Ross and Moses Alexander, when the so-called establishment favored a Democrat for a major office. Therefore, his landslide may have been a deviation and not a realignment."

Church won 57.19 per cent of the vote in 1974 but the "most significant phase of this contest" was the vote cast for Republican challenger Bob Smith in strong Republican counties.

According to Martin, Smith did not carry traditionally "safe" Republican counties with any more than 56.70 per cent of the vote and lost in some counties — Bonneville, Butte, Clark, Madison, Oneida and Teton — which have solid Republican records. As usual, Martin said voters in the 1974 election were "crossing over" and "being extremely selective." In a number of second district counties voters supported both Republican congressional candidate George Hansen and Democrat Church, while all first district counties gave Andrus large percentages while returning Republican Steve Symms to his second term in Congress.

Martin said the 1974 returns show Ada and Latah counties are the two counties "undergoing the most transition in party preference. For years, he said, Latah County was considered "solidly Republican" but Andrus picked up 83.10 per cent of the votes cast in Latah. Ada County, Martin predicts, is "going to the Democrats" and in 1974 Andrus carried the county with 73.50 per cent of the vote for 18.51 per cent of his statewide total.

Celebrations draw fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., has her way, Congress will stop creating things like "International Pickle Week" — "National Arishoke Week" (it began Friday) and "Save the Pin Week." As new chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee's Subcommittee on the Census, she won full committee approval for a new policy of limiting congressional attention to commemorative legislation deserving of its attention.

Only those "which have such national appeal and significance that they have the potential to receive serious consideration as a national legal holiday" will be considered in the future, she said Friday.

The black musical version of "The Wizard of Oz," which won mixed critical reception when it opened, "The Wiz" won the best musical award for the 1974-75 season, "Equus," a smash hit British import by Peter Shaffer, was named the best play and its director, John Dexter, won best director for a play.

It was bonanza night for "The Wiz," which also carried off Tonys for best director, best supporting actor and actress in "The Wiz" won seven of the eight awards for which it was nominated.

It was a spectacular 29th annual presentation of the Antoinette Perry awards of the American Theater Wing on the stage of the Winter Garden Theater.

The nationally televised show, (ABC) recounted the 55-year history of the grand old house. Former New York Mayor John V. Lindsay got the act, escorting Miss Lansbury on stage for her rendition of the theme song from "Mame," the Winter Garden hit of 1966.

Miss Lansbury won a Tony for best actress in a musical, the revival of "Gypsy" in which she played the role originated by Ethel Merman.

A special Tony was given to playwright Neil Simon, author of 14 plays and musicals, for his contribution to the American theater, and Al

Hirschfeld was given the League of New York Theaters' 1975 award for his long career as a theatrical character artist.

Postal Service, 4 labor unions begin talks today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiations on new pay scales for mail workers beginning this week could raise the cost of sending first class letters later this year.

The Post Service and four labor unions begin the talks today.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability will watch the proceedings during the more than two months the bargaining is expected to take. The 600,000 unionized postal workers are seeking higher pay and broader fringe benefits.

The outcome of the bargaining is viewed as likely to set a pattern for contract negotiations for other federal employees.

Union spokesmen have indicated they will seek more than a 5 per cent wage increase with cost of living adjustments made quarterly instead of semi-annually, as is done now.

Other goals include a 35-hour work week, government-paid life, health and retirement plans; more job protection; bigger wage, in decisions that concern workloads; and standards and improved safety and working conditions.

The Postal Service has given no hint of what counter proposals it may make.

"We recognize the need to hold the price of the new contract down to the barest possible minimum," senior assistant Postmaster General Darrell Brown told UPI in an interview. "I think that it's our primary responsibility."

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Ballar said on taking office last February that there will be "great pressure for a rate increase this fall" and the amount "will be colored in large part by the contract settlement this summer."

Workers called back

DETROIT (UPI) — More than 15,400 auto workers have been called back to their jobs from long term layoffs this month, a fact cited by the industry's top brass as new evidence of a long hoped-for turnaround.

This week's list of indefinite layoffs stands at 192,000 workers, almost 6,000 below last week. Entering April, opened layoffs affected 207,465 blue collar workers — more than 30 per cent of the hourly work force.

Chrysler reduced its open-ended layoffs by 1,000 and Ford 750 in the last week. General Motors has cut 4,200 workers from the long-term layoff list — 1,900 who returned to their jobs today at the Oldsmobile and Fisher-Body plants in Lansing and 2,000 called back at scattered Chevrolet operations in the past week.

The 203,000 workers on short and long-term layoffs is the second lowest figure of the year, with only the 190,000 of the job in the first week of January getting below that figure.

175,000 watch opening

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — The citizens of Concord spent five years planning for the opening of the American Revolution Bicentennial. But the crowd that showed this weekend was different from what they expected.

An estimated 175,000 people from around the country, plus President Ford and his entourage, turned out to watch the recreation of the first shots fired in the American war for independence.

The first 40,000 to arrive early Saturday were youths who spent the night celebrating the People's Bicentennial Commission's version of the anniversary — a "counter-bicentennial" call for "economic independence," featuring speeches by anti-folk singers Arlo Guthrie and Pete Seeger.

The youthful beer-and-wine-drinking crowd left tons of debris over four to five acres in Minute Man National Historical Park.

When the members of the Concord Independent Battery took their positions at 6 a.m. to act out "the shot heard round the world," they fired to an accompaniment of chants of "Jobs, not guns!"

And Dr. Seymour A. Dimare, portraying Paul Revere's colleague Dr. Samuel Prescott, ran into heavy traffic when he galloped into the park shouting, "The British are coming!" Dimare was thrown from his horse near the famed Old North Bridge.

The National Park Service commended the People's Bicentennial Commission for its cooperation in containing the youths; but residents of this quiet, rural, upper-middle-class suburb were not so enthusiastic. Their new flower beds are a shambles, their front yards trampled.

"They say they had three times the population of the town down near the bridge," said Robert Peterson, owner of the Colonial Stores variety shop. "I don't think a lot of them really care about the BBC or the bicentennial. They don't even know what town they're in. They're here for the action. It's a unique experience."

Peterson kept his store closed, turning away tourists who lined up seeking film for their cameras. If he had opened for business, he said, "we would lose more than we'd sell."

However, things were worse 100 years ago, when America celebrated its centennial at Concord. In 1875, horses, carriages and people packed the streets so tightly President Ulysses S. Grant had trouble getting around.

The president arrived with a phalanx of state local and park police as well as Secret Service agents. With the crowds spilling onto the parade route, it was the only way a president or anyone else could get through.

Mayors endorse 'bullet' idea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Conference of Mayors has endorsed the idea that bullets for handguns be outlawed as a dangerous product.

The mayors Sunday told the Consumer Product Safety Commission it should approve a petition asking for the ban because of "mounting evidence of handgun injury and death, combined with the impulsive nature of handgun violence."

The conference called the "uncontrolled proliferation of handguns an increasing threat to the general public welfare."

The Chicago-based Committee for Handgun Control asked the commission last year to ban pistol bullets except for police, military and registered sporting club use. The effect of the request, if granted, would be to ban most handguns themselves.

The Mayors Conference consists of the heads of 750 cities with populations of more than 30,000. It noted it has had since 1972 a "strong policy statement calling for the virtual removal of handguns from private citizens."

Insurance plan eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is stumbling toward action on providing health insurance for the unemployed.

The debate and vote could be a preview of the battle certain to come later over national health insurance.

As expected in the larger debate, the question of insurance for the jobless is hung up in a jurisdictional squabble on Capitol Hill and political differences over the financing and execution of such a program.

But even if Congress passes such legislation and President Ford signs it, it may not provide adequate coverage for the unemployed.

IRS hides Nixon returns, aide says

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (UPI) — Officials of the Internal Revenue Service hid the tax returns of former President Richard M. Nixon when evidence surfaced in late 1973 that he had underpaid his taxes, according to a former IRS auditor.

Former auditor Ralph F. LaCrosse said in a copyrighted story in the Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin that IRS officials ordered Nixon's name removed from agency indexes.

He said he participated in a process of "burning off" Nixon's name from unperfected indexes, making it impossible for anyone within the IRS to locate the former President's tax returns.

LaCrosse said the order from Washington to "burn off" Nixon's name from the indexes was unprecedented, but the command was followed in the IRS Mid-Atlantic regional headquarters in Philadelphia without hesitation.

The Bulletin quoted LaCrosse, who retired last June on a medical disability, and "other IRS sources" as saying that "Nixon's name was also removed from indexes in Martinsburg, W. Va., where IRS's national computer center is based."

IRS officials admitted removing Nixon's name but said it was done for security reasons, according to the Bulletin.

Francis T. Geibel, retired chief of internal security for the IRS, said he ordered Nixon's name eradicated from the indexes because of leaks to the press in October, 1973, that Nixon had paid less than $1,000 in income taxes in 1970 and 1971. He declined to say who instructed him to issue the order.

Beet sugar output surge seen

(Courtesy Sinclair & Co. NEW YORK CITY) — A dramatic increase in U.S. sugar beet production is expected this year, as the amount of Western acreage under contract with processors has risen sharply from the artificially low levels of 1974. Planting in major Western growing states, especially Utah, Oregon and Idaho have been delayed by cold wet spring weather, but farmers report that the three week set back is not yet serious and they hope to begin planting before the end of the month.

Most of the sugarbeet acreage in the state of Washington, approximately 73,000 acres, has been planted. The three major beet processing companies operating in the West—Great Western Sugar, Amalgamated Sugar and the Utah and Idaho Sugar Co. all report plans to operate at full capacity this year and indicate that the acreage contracted for with farmers is the maximum they can handle with existing facilities.

Great Western Sugar Co. in Colorado projects an 18 per cent increase in contracted acreage as compared with last year's total, Jack Powell, GWS's executive vice president said that with about 90 per cent of grower contracts signed, Great Western will plant approximately 300,000 acres of sugarbeets over a seven-state area. He also reported that field work was behind last year's pace and that at the moment approximately 15 per cent of the beets were in the ground.

Amalgamated Sugar, headquartered in Ogden, Utah, has contracted for approximately 150,000 acres in the three states they operate in. This, according to company spokesman Larry Corry, represents a 23 per cent increase over last year's planted acreage. Amalgamated is also planning to operate at full capacity and indicates that plantings are about three weeks behind schedule. Carl Decker of the Utah and Idaho Sugar Co. of Salt Lake City, said that his firm plans to level out to 1973 levels when they planted 140,000 acres of sugarbeets. This would bring Utah and Idaho sugar to full capacity.

Total sugarbeet acreage in Idaho is expected to be up about 63 per cent this year and the secretary of the Idaho Sugarbeet Growers Association, Claude Johnson, feels that only two things stand in the way of further expansion. One is the fact that production and land costs have soared and the other is the limitations imposed by local plants which do not have the facilities to process any more beets than will grow this year.

Nonetheless, Johnson said that production in the Upper Snake River and Snake Valleys will increase by 100 per cent, up to 35,000 acres compared with 22,000 acres last year. Some of this new acreage will come from land traditionally devoted to potatoes, but Johnson feels that farmers have not absolutely made up their minds yet and if potato prices continue to increase as they have in the past few weeks, there could be some last minute switching back to potatoes.

Production costs for sugarbeets and potatoes are similar, although the potatoes do cost about $100 more an acre to grow. The price processors pay growers for their beets is computed as an annual average of sugar prices over the course of the crop year which begins on Oct. 1. Thus, farmers are still being paid for the beets they grew last year.

Amalgamated spokesman Corry says that payments thus far have averaged around $40 a ton and projected that the annual average would likely work out to be around $44 a ton. This compares with a 1973 average price of $33 a ton and a price during the early part of the decade of approximately $30 a ton.

The USDA in its March 37 planting intentions report estimated that sugarbeet acreage nationwide would increase by about 23 per cent during 1975. However, the secretary of the National Sugarbeet Growers Association, Richard Blake, feels that this figure is a bit high and indicated that the actual increase would be closer to 20 per cent.

One way or the other, the nation should produce an exceptionally large sugarbeet crop this year, but one smaller acreage-wise than years such as 1969 when 1.6 million acres were planted. However, when the yield factor, which has increased steadily during the past few years is considered, the U.S. could see a near record sugarbeet crop this year of nearly 30 million tons.

Cattle on feed numbers show drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of cattle fattening in feedlots on April 1 for production of high quality grain-fed beef was at the lowest level for the month in a dozen years, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

Total beef supplies for consumers still are running at record levels because a sharp decline in grain-fed beef production has been more than offset by increased output of meat from grass-fed, leaner cattle and cows.

An Agriculture Department report showed, however, that the decline in grain feeding is continuing. Officials estimated at 8,432 million head the number of cattle on feed April 1 in 23 major producing states. This was 31 per cent below a year earlier, 37 per cent below two years earlier and the smallest for the date since 1963. The report said the number of cattle placed in feedlots in the 23 states from January through March totaled 4,712 million head, down 19 per cent from a year earlier. Officials estimated the number of cattle sent to slaughter from feedlots from April through June in the 23 states may be 4.7 million head, 23 per cent below a year earlier.

Estimates of numbers on feed in some major states compared with a year earlier on April 1 included: Texas — 1,122 million head, down 19 per cent; Iowa — 1,160 million head, down 37 per cent; Kansas — 860,000 head, down 20 per cent; Nebraska — 860,000 head, down 30 per cent; Colorado — 687,000 head, down 21 per cent; Illinois — 268,000 head, unchanged; and California — 479,000 head, down 30 per cent.

Bean prices hold steady

STOCKTON, Calif. — Bean prices were about steady with the previous week, according to Bean Market News reports for April 15.

Idaho pintos sold at $29 per hundred this week and the week before, but Great Northerns were down 50 cents from $17.50 to $17. Small red were $26 compared with $26-27 last week and pinks brought $26 this week and $26-27 the previous week.

Great Northerns from other states by this week and last week included Nebraska, $17.50 and $17.75 pints, Washington, $28.50-29 and $29.

SCS support lack scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, criticized the Nixon and Ford administrations Friday for their failure to adequately support the program of the Soil Conservation Service.

In remarks presented to the Senate Appropriations Committee, Church cited repeated recommendations that more personnel be provided for the agency and continued encouragement on the part of the administration in expending funds appropriated by the Congress for the programs.

The senator said the success of the SCS program now appeared to be in jeopardy.

Personnel ceilings, indeed personnel cutbacks, have been imposed at the very time demand is at the highest, Church said. "It is ironic as we stand here that the staff, speak of new farm methods to assure greater streams, and tell farmers that their efforts must be rewarded, that we cut back the personnel and funding of the very agency that can help make these goals a reality."

Saudi oil minister calls for new round of talks

SHEIK ZAKI YAMANI
... new price hike?

Nixon, USC plan future library

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Saudi Arabian oil minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani says producer and consumer nations should resume the talks that broke down in Paris last week or a new series of price increases could result.

Yamani said Sunday the two sides are moving closer to each other and that after meeting last week with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, he concluded the Paris talks broke down more over procedure than substance.

"Without the Paris meeting we might have some sort of confrontation because it means the consumers are not willing to sit down with us and discuss our problems," Yamani said in a broadcast interview on CBS-TV. "Face the Nation."

"In this case I cannot guarantee that prices won't go up," he said.

In other developments Sunday, two Southern Illinois University professors said in a study that the goal of U.S. energy independence by 1985 is too costly and should be abandoned, and an electric power industry official predicted an energy shortage by 1980 "that will make your hair curl."

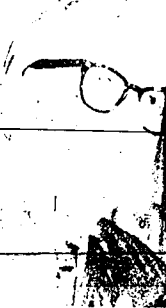

The businessmen, Donald C. Cook of the American Electric Power Co., appeared with five other corporate leaders in a broadcast interview (NBC-TV, "Meet the Press") and declined to join the others in predicting an economic upturn later this year.

"All good people can hope these five earlier forecasts are going to be accurate, but it is not yet true in the electric power business," Cook said.

In the latter part of 1979 or earlier, and it will surely be in full flower by 1980, there will be a power shortage in the United States that will make your hair curl."

He called for consolidating all federal energy programs under a single boss and compared the need for rapid energy development and conservation to the all-out U.S. effort to build the atomic bomb.

"The professors' report said instead of seeking energy independence "an unacceptably costly target," the United States should try instead to build "energy ties" with petroleum-producing nations and by encouraging them to invest their

Arab chiefs plan strategy

By United Press International

Saudi Arabia's King Khalid invited two other Arab heads of state to meet with him in Riyadh today to draw up a common strategy of war or peace with Israel.

Arab political sources said Khalid would meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Syrian President Hafez Assad in the Saudi capital to work out a united Arab stand following the failure of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's latest peace mission.

The sources could not confirm reports Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, would attend the summit.

Jordan's King Hussein met with Khalid over the weekend.

In Israel, the Jerusalem Post newspaper said Israel Foreign Minister Yigal Allon and Kissinger, expected to meet today in Washington, may discuss the possibility of a meeting between President Ford and Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

A government official in Jerusalem, however, said that Allon would bring up the question of a Ford-Rabin summit meeting in his talks with Kissinger today.

In Tel Aviv, a top military expert said Sunday a war does not mean Israel will be able to produce most of the weapons it needs.

"As far as the technology and facilities for manufacturing and production of ordnance are concerned, we are not there, but we would like to see some restriction to the amount of Israeli production," said Maj. Gen. Elazar Barak.

Asked if this meant Israel could make all its own weapons except warplanes and naval vessels, Barak replied, "Given the facilities I don't see why not."

In other developments:

Foreign ministers and representatives of the 20 Arab League nations in Cairo today resumed talks broken off by the assassination of South Arabia's King Faisal last month.

Troops open fire

LISBON (UPI) — Portuguese troops opened fire on a mob that broke up a political rally in the town of Gmarrães early today, police said.

More than 200 persons were reported injured.

Police said the attack was directed against a meeting of the right-of-center Social Democratic Center party in a theater in Gmarrães, located about 200 miles north of Lisbon.

Boat lifted

COLOGNE, Germany (UPI) — Salvage crews today hoisted the burned-out wreck of a Dutch pleasure cruiser from the bottom of the Rhine river and discovered the partially disintegrated bodies of 19 persons, police said.

The figure brought the death toll to 20 in Saturday's blaze that blazed disabled and elderly passengers on board the riverboat Princess Irene.

A further impediment to Nixon's plans to deed his presidential papers to the university is a series of civil suits asking that the public be given access to the former president's papers under the Freedom of Information Act. These suits have been stayed pending a court decision on the constitutionality of the government's decision to retain the Nixon administration papers.

In the university's statement, John R. Hubbard, president of the university, noted some of the uncertainties involving the agreement with Nixon. Hubbard, said that if the statute requiring that Nixon's presidential materials be retained in Washington was declared invalid, plans for construction of the library would "begin immediately."

Group objects to bill

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry has written to the House Subcommittee on Parks and Recreation, objecting to a bill establishing a 700,000-acre National Recreation Area on 163 miles of the Middle Snake River.

The letter, written by association President Leo V. Bodine, opposes the bill saying it is poorly conceived and unnecessarily restrictive in several respects.

"Especially, we are concerned the Members of Congress may assume from presentations by officials of this state that there is unanimity of opinion among the people of Idaho in support of H.B. 30," Bodine said in his letter.

Snake time

BOISE (UPI) — Spring weather is bringing out the rattlesnakes again near Lucky Peak Dam. Stan Barzani, Boise, killed his first rattler of the season Sunday, a 4-inch snake with nine rattles. He and his two young sons found the snake while out for a walk on the rimrock on the south side of the Boise River below the dam.

Buzzini said his experience should serve as a warning to others who might stumble into a den of snakes just coming out.

Republican named chairman

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. James F. Ellsworth, R-Leadore, has been elected chairman of the Idaho Legislature's Land Grant Committee.

Li Gov. John Evans was elected vice-chairman at the committee's meeting Friday in Boise.

The committee was created by the 1971 Legislature to prepare recommendations on land Idaho should receive from the federal government in exchange for state land taken over the years for such purposes as federal parks and national forests.

Hamburger lovers line up

BOISE (UPI) — Hamburger lovers turned out by the thousands Sunday when a local McDonald's drive-in observed its 20th anniversary by selling burgers for 15 cents apiece.

They started lining up at 8 a.m., 2½ hours before the drive-in opened. By noon, there was a continuous crowd of 150 to 200 persons waiting for their crack at the single sale item. There was a limit of 20 per customer.

Owner Walt Stallcup estimated sale of 12,000 burgers. Although he offered the burgers for the low price to observe the anniversary, Stallcup indicated it was a one-time offer. "I can't make them for 15 cents," he said.

Escape squelched

BOISE (UPI) — A lover guard stopped two prisoners from escaping from the state prison Sunday night, firing a shot over their heads and forcing them to drop to the ground and surrender.

Tony Watson, Lewiston, serving a 10-year term for manslaughter, and Gary Gardner, a transfer from Nevada who is serving 99 years for second-degree murder, ran from their cellhouse about 10:15 p.m.

They got about 30 yards before a tower guard spotted them, and fired. They dropped to the ground and guards immediately took them into custody, placing them in the penitentiary's maximum security building.

Cause of TF fire reported

TWIN FALLS — A fire which destroyed a home on Elizabeth Boulevard Saturday was caused by a faulty steam boiler, according to an owner of the house.

It was previously reported that the fire was caused by a spark igniting spilled gasoline from a lawnmower. A leaky valve on an oil-powered steam boiler in the garage started the fire, according to one of the home's owners, Dr. Adele Thompson, dean of women at the College of Southern Idaho.

Dr. Thompson said that Jeffrey Thompson had been working on a lawnmower in the yard and when he went into the garage to get a hammer he saw the fire ignite, catching some cabinets on fire. Dr. Thompson said the family was "all in shock" about the fire, but happy to be alive. The Thompsons are staying at a local motel.

Proposed center

ARCHITECT'S scale model shows controversial SNRA Administrative Visitor Center as it is planned to look if built on the North Fork in Baline County. John McGuire, chief of the Forest Service, has called for an agency review of the proposed site after Sen. Frank Church requested a moratorium on the construction until a county plan is completed. Local residents have begun a drive to stop construction of the center.

College GOP leaders set

TWIN FALLS — David Warnick, a junior journalism major and student leader from the University of Idaho, was elected chairman of the Idaho College Republican League at their convention here Saturday.

Warnick, from Moscow, is president of the Associated Students at the university.

Three Twin Falls women took other offices during convention elections at the College of Southern Idaho.

Carla Grabert, Twin Falls, was elected first vice-chairman; Dorothy Peavey, Twin Falls, a junior at Idaho State University, was elected second vice-chairman; and Diane Zuck, Twin Falls, also a CSI freshman, was elected recording secretary.

Sue Peavey, a freshman at Boise State University, will serve as auditor.

State Senator John Peavey told the conventioners, "I think the people have proved us right on the Sunshine Initiative and the presidential primary initiative."

Republican National Committeewoman Ornette Sinclair gave convention participants an orientation on the Idaho Republican Plan. Mrs. Sinclair said, "There can be no doubt this country is in a mess; after forty years of a Democratic Congress."

Other speakers included Twin Falls County Republican chairman Laird Noh and Ed Benoit, member of the State Board of Education.

The College Republicans passed a resolution commending members of the Idaho legislature for their action on the presidential primary proposal.

Chairman Warnick called for the group to work for the adoption of new rules to bring the Idaho Republican Party into line with the recently-approved presidential primary law.

Burley council meets tonight

BURLEY — Increased electrical rates will be considered by the Burley city council tonight.

Mayor Charles Shaddock said a consultant hired by the city will present a proposed revised rate structure to the council during their regular meeting.

While rates will be increased, Shaddock said, he did not know just how much the rates might go up.

The increased cost of electricity reflects the higher charges imposed by the Bonneville Power Administration at the end of 1974.

Elimination of the city's lower rates for electric heat and electric hot water heaters will be considered, Shaddock said.

The electric heat rate discount will probably be phased out over a period of several years, he said.

Also on the council's agenda is — consideration of creating a no parking zone on 22nd street from Almo to Highland streets; — consideration of calling for bids on two police cars.

— discussion of applying for a community development grant; and — discussion about increasing the size of the police force by two.

Evacuation speeded up

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States is speeding up the evacuation of Americans from South Vietnam in the face of the rapid Communist advance on Saigon.

U.S. officials said more than 1,100 Americans and dependents left South Vietnam, over the weekend, bringing the number remaining in the country to less than 3,000.

The officials said the number of Americans in the war-torn country is expected to drop to under 2,000 within 24 hours if all goes well with the evacuation.

An undetermined number of others, including Filipinos, West Germans, Australians, Taiwanese and endangered South Vietnamese, also left the country on the U.S. airlift.

Unofficial estimates indicated hundreds of the non-American evacuees left over the weekend and many more were leaving today.

An estimated 275 Filipinos working for the U.S. government in South Vietnam were being flown on U.S. jets to Clark Air Force base in the Philippines.

Alfonso Cautinan, a Filipino who has worked in South Vietnam since 1969, said "70 to 80" Philippine technicians and more than 200 dependents were flying home today.

"Some of us hate to leave," Cautinan said. "But it is unavoidable. There is nothing left to do, no choice. It is too late."

Authorities used an emergency processing center to speed up administrative procedures for departure. But Communist forces also stepped up their advance on Saigon.

Most of the evacuation was being handled by U.S. Air Force C141 Starliner jets. Chartered commercial airliners handled the rest of the pullout.

About 100 persons waited at the U.S. Embassy in Saigon today to complete paperwork for leaving the country. All but one were Vietnamese, mostly women with children.

U.S. officials said none of the American servicemen who deserted during the war, and went underground has showed up to try to get evacuated.

The officials put the number of deserters believed to be in the country at about a dozen. But unofficial estimates put the number at around 300.

The officials said deserters would probably be sent back to the United States like other Americans, but the men would likely be turned over to authorities for further action.

Kissinger plans extended tour of Latin America

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger leaves Wednesday for his first extended tour of Latin America, where he is expected to seek a compromise on ending the 11-year hemispheric ban on Cuba.

His long-planned, often postponed trip will take him to the capitals of Argentina, Brazil and Venezuela over five days. Kissinger will have meetings with Presidents Maria Estela Martinez de Peron of Argentina, Gen. Ernesto Geisel of Brazil and Carlos Andres Perez of Venezuela.

The State Department is silent on Kissinger's agenda. The secretary said earlier the U.S. foreign trade act — harshly criticized by Latin Americans — and the fate of the economic and diplomatic sanctions imposed on Cuba by the Organization of American States in 1964 will be main subjects.

Both issues came up again when Kissinger attends the next OAS foreign ministers' conference in Washington May 8.

The issue of Cuban sanctions will be in discussions about the reform of the OAS charter and the 1947 Rio Treaty of mutual assistance.

A United States-sponsored proposal to revise the rules so the sanctions can be lifted by a simple majority of 12 could end the hemispheric ban on the Fidel Castro government. Kissinger said earlier that he will use this trip to discuss the United States' willingness to support that reform. He also left the door open for a change in U.S. policy. "If the OAS sanctions are eventually repealed," he said, "the United States will consider changes in its bilateral relations with Cuba ... We see no virtue in perpetual antagonism between the United States and OAS." Nine out of the OAS' 23 members — including Argentina and Venezuela — have full diplomatic ties with Castro.

Anesthesiologists strike

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Anesthesiologists at 19 Broward County hospitals today began a one-week strike to protest sharp increases in malpractice insurance costs and the threatened loss of coverage.

The strike halted all but emergency surgery. County hospitals, anticipating the walkout by the 30 anesthesiologists, increased the regular schedule of operations during the weekend and most hospitals also cut back on admission of elective surgery candidates.

"The attending surgeons will determine what is an emergency," said Dr. William Glantz, chief of staff at Hollywood Memorial Hospital. "There will be a panel to review cases to prevent abuses of emergency surgery. But if the attending physician and panel disagree, the attending surgeon will have the final say."

Dr. Glantz said a delegation of four or five anesthesiologists were to talk with legislators in Tallahassee later today.

The strike was called to protest sharp increases in the cost of malpractice insurance and threatened cancellation of the insurance by Argonaut Insurance Co. of Menlo Park, Calif. The firm provides about 90 per cent of the malpractice coverage in Florida.

A court hearing is scheduled for Jacksonville Friday to determine if Argonaut will be permitted to cancel its coverage.

The Dade County Medical Association may join the walkout Friday if the situation has not improved by that time.

Burley expects to name new police chief soon

BURLEY — Burley city's search for a new police chief may end in about 10 days.

Mayor Charles "Cruke" Shaddock said today he expects to make a decision on hiring a new chief within ten days.

Former police chief Gary Booth was fired by the Mayor and city council Feb. 10.

Since Booth's firing, Shaddock said he has received more than 15 applications for the position.

So far, Shaddock said, it hasn't been necessary to advertise the vacancy and he sees no intentions of doing so. If an acceptable applicant is found, Shaddock said first preference will be given to applicants from within the police force. Second preference will be given to applicants from Idaho, he said.

One person on the force has applied so far, Shaddock said.

Booth was fired because of allegations of fiscal and personnel mismanagement.

Booth's firing sparked the mass resignation of 19 of the department's 31 employees. Those walking off the job said they could support Booth, but not the council or mayor.

However, several of the policemen who walked off later rejoined the force.

Capt. Kirby Harkness was appointed acting chief when Booth was fired. Shaddock said Harkness would be considered for the Chief's position, if he applied. However, Harkness has not applied for the job, Shaddock said.

Demo gives views on Thieu resignation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today that the resignation of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was a "move in the right direction" which might bring about a negotiated settlement of the war in that country.

Neither Mansfield nor any other congressman reacted immediately to the charge which Thieu made in his resignation speech — that the United States had reneged on a commitment of military aid made by former President Richard M. Nixon.

But several others appeared to support Mansfield's assessment that the resignation "would further decrease prospects" of U.S. military aid to South Vietnam. And many of them also expressed the hope that a negotiated political settlement could be achieved in that war-torn nation.

Mansfield said the appropriation of more U.S. military aid would be "futile" considering the continued retreat of Vietnam military forces and the amount of time it would take before the aid could be "put into the pipeline."

"The question is if it is too late for negotiations," Mansfield asked.

He told reporters he hoped that an agreement could be reached which would allow the Viet Cong and the remaining elements to form a coalition government.

"I dislike using the term surrender, but negotiations would bring the conflict to an end," he said, adding that Thieu's resignation was a "move in the right direction."

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., expressed a similar thought. "Let us all hope," he said, "that this will speed up negotiations that will result in less loss of life and property."

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., warned the resignation only makes a political solution a possibility — "not a probability."

Rep. Joe Waggoner, D-La., said he doubts the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong will immediately wage a military campaign against the Saigon government which will surrender.

The resignation came as a top surprise and probably signals the end of South Vietnam as an independent country, he added.

Waggoner said, however, there still is adequate time to evacuate Americans and certain South Vietnamese from Saigon. And Mansfield added he understood that "events are forcing the speed up of evacuation."

"With Mr. Thieu's resignation, two questions remain: Is it enough of a change in leadership and is it too late, considering the severity of the situation in South Vietnam," Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., said.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, added grimly: "The war is finished. The cause is lost and the Vietnamese now take charge of their own affairs."

McGee takes Pensacola Open

HAPPY Sandra Palmer holds her first prize check for $28,000. She won every round and finished five under par to win the Colgate-Dinah Shore Winner Circle LPGA championship in Palm Springs, Calif., Sunday. (UPI)

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — Jerry McGee overcame an early double bogey Sunday to break an eight-year victory drought by winning the Pensacola Open, the fourth straight week that an Ohio State alumnus has won on the pro golf tour.

The 31-year-old McGee has been on the tour since 1967 but had never done better than his third place finish at Greensboro two weeks ago. He was not invited to last week's Masters and this also is the first time in those eight years that he made a tournament cut after a week's layoff.

McGee started the final round with a one stroke lead over—Wally Armstrong—but trailed both Armstrong and his close friend Bruce Crampton going into the final nine.

Four back-nine birdies, three of them in a row, enabled McGee to bounce back with a tunder-par 70 for the day and a total 18-under-par 271 that beat Armstrong by two strokes and Crampton, Miller Barber and Dwight Nevil by three.

McGee said Saturday he felt it as "a good omen" that fellow Ohio State alumni Jack Nicklaus' "Heritage and Masters" and Tom Weiskopf ("Greensboro") had won the previous three weeks. Since Nicklaus, who did not play here, also won at Doral, that's five triumphs for Ohio State in six weeks.

McGee almost played himself out of contention on the early holes Sunday. He bogeyed the second hole, to back into a tie with Armstrong, then double bogeyed No. 4 to fall two strokes behind. At No. 4, McGee hit into a hazard, then into a tree and next into a bunker. "One putting for his double bogey."

McGee was three over par for the day at the nine-hole turn, but then proceeded to break the next three holes to vault right back into the title battle. Armstrong, who had been leading since a birdie at No. 6, backed out of a tie with McGee at No. 16 and then fell out of contention with another bogey at 17.

The $25,000 first prize in this $125,000 tournament raised McGee's earnings so far this year to just over $65,000, more than he ever made before in a full year. It also raised him to eighth place on this year's money list since all but four of the previous 10 skipped play this week.

Few of the top names of the pro golf tour play the week between the Masters and the Tournament of Champions, and Pensacola Open officials are hoping that the PGA will give them a more favorable date next year.

Armstrong shot even par 71, Sunday to finish at 11 under 273. Crampton, with a final 69; Nevil, with a 65; and Barber, with a 68, were all at 10 under 274.

U.S. Amateur champ Jerry Pate, lone amateur among the 80 who made the cut for the last two days of play here, had a 66-275 Alling Doug Sanders, who had a surprising 64 Friday, finished at 69-277. Billy Casper, closed with a 66-278. South African-born Gary Player, who shot 72-285 after three straight 70s.

Defending champion Lee Eder was never a serious contender in this tournament where a year ago he earned a bid to become the first black to play in the Masters. He wound up at 70-277—six strokes off McGee's pace.

also has never won but who is only in his second tour year. "I'm looking forward to the rest of the year because I really feel I can win now."

The final round was played under heavy overcast skies with a constant threat of rain. A few drops fell from time to time but never enough to affect play.

Nevil said the heavy rain that interrupted play Saturday didn't appear to affect the greens Sunday, "but did make the course play a little bit longer."

"The greens were about the same as they have been here all week," said Nevil. "Anytime you could reach them, and that's most of the time, you were putting for a birdie."

Palmer wins LPGA title

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Tiny Texas Sandra Palmer, playing as if she had been programmed by a computer, won the biggest prize in women's golf Sunday by carding an over-par 73 in the final round to complete a wire-to-wire victory in the $200,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winner Circle LPGA Championship, finishing one stroke ahead of Kathy McMullen.

Miss Palmer finished with a four-day total of 283, five underpar, on the sun-baked Mission Hills Country Club course, while Miss McMullen, with a last-day 71, wound up at 284, three shots better than the trio of Choko Higuchi, Carmie Jo Skala and Carol Mann.

TF man sinks hole-in-one

TWIN FALLS — Tom Schafer, Twin Falls, shot a hole-in-one at the eighth hole of the Blue Lakes Country Club golf course Sunday.

Miss Palmer, who ranked fifth on the LPGA money list with $54,875 last year, had two birdies and three bogeys on her 36-37 finishing round. She had a three-shot lead over Miss McMullen at the end of 54 holes.

Reds, Astros split

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Jose Cruz and Milt May drove home five runs between them as the Houston Astros scored a 7-6 victory Sunday after the Cincinnati Reds won the opener of the doubleheader 5-3 on a two-run ninth inning homer by Pete Rose.

Miss McMullen, 25, of Braventon, Fla., closed to within one shot of Miss Palmer when she birdied the 9th, 11th and 12th holes, but Miss Palmer, playing in the last threesome directly behind Miss McMullen, made a 35-foot putt for a birdie on the par-four 371-yard 12th hole.

Royals blank Rangers

ARLINGTON (UPI) — Tiny Fred Patek lashed a two-run triple in the second inning that produced the only runs of the game and gave the Kansas City Royals and Al Fomoris a 2-0 demolition over the Texas Rangers Sunday.

Miss Palmer, who showed little emotion during the fourth annual Dinah Shore event, jumped up and down and clapped her hands after sinking the birdie putt to go two shots up.

A's sweep doubleheader

OAKLAND (UPI) — Glenn Abbott, Dave Hamilton and Jim Todd, three almost forgotten pitchers on the Oakland A's staff, combined Sunday to pitch the world champions to a 4-1 and 5-1 doubleheader sweep of the Minnesota Twins.

Miss Palmer also won herself a new car in joining Jo Ann Prentice, 1973, Kathy Whitworth (1974) and Jane Blalock (1972) as champion in the biggest plum on the women's pro golf list.

Giants outscore Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ed Goodson's bases-loaded walk forced in the go-ahead run in the 11th inning and Chris Speler followed with a two-run single Sunday to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 6-3 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The 31 one-half 111-pound frosted blonds who started playing golf at age 13 in Bangor, Maine, had 10 birdies and five bogeys in her 72 holes here.

Mets take 2 from Cubs

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York survived a ninth-inning rally by the Chicago Cubs with the tying run on third base as reliever Rick Baldwin retired Bill Madlock on fly ball to right field to give Randy Tate's first major-league victory, 4-3 and give the Mets a sweep of their doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs Sunday.

Miss Palmer, who showed little emotion during the fourth annual Dinah Shore event, jumped up and down and clapped her hands after sinking the birdie putt to go two shots up.

The Mets won the opener 8-6 with an 11-hit attack and Bob Apodaca's effective relief pitching to snuff a seven-game Chicago winning streak.

Bulls trounce Kings, take series lead

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bob Love dropped in 30 points and Tom Bobrowinkle led both teams in rebounding Sunday to spark the Chicago Bulls to a one-sided 104-77 win over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings and a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series.

It was only the second win in eight national television appearances for the Bulls this season and evened their season performance against the Kings at seven wins apiece. The Bulls, who believed they lost at Kansas City Friday night because of poor officiating, never gave the officials a chance to affect the outcome Sunday.

Kansas City never led. Chicago opened up a six-point lead in the first two minutes of play, increased it to as many as 18 points in the second quarter and to as many as 26 in the third quarter. Kansas City pulled within 12 points in the last period before the Bulls moved out again.

The Bulls' tight defense, the best in the NBA during the regular season, limited the Kings to only 13 points in the first period and 18 in the second while Chicago was moving to a 47-31 halftime lead. During the first half, Love totalled only eight points but he hit 22 in the second half to stay close to his 31-point per game playoff average.

Bobrowinkle pulled down 19 rebounds and the Bulls had 55 for the game, while Kansas City could get only 43.

Nate Archibald, the key man for the Kings, scored only 13 points in the contest and was hampered in his passing for assists throughout the game as the Bulls clogged the lanes and prevented him from slipping the ball to his forwards.

Scott Wedman also had 13 points for the Kings and Ron Behagen netted 12.

Chef Walker scored 18 for the Bulls.

Bullets outscore Buffalo for edge

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Elvin Hayes scored 16 of his 46 points in the fourth quarter Sunday afternoon to lead the Washington Bullets to a 97-93 comeback victory over the Buffalo Braves in a nationally televised National Basketball Association playoff game.

The victory gives the Bullets a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series with game six scheduled for Wednesday night in Buffalo.

Hayes, who made 19 of 24 shots from the floor, put through one of three free throws with 1:19 remaining to give the Bullets a 94-89 lead and enough points for the victory.

Jim McMillian came back with a pair of baskets to put Buffalo within one, 94-93, with 30 seconds play.

But Wes Unseld then rebounded a missed Hayes shot with five seconds left and scored to put Washington ahead 96-93. Unseld added a free throw with one second remaining after the Braves had missed a final scoring opportunity.

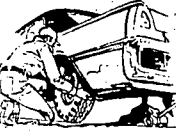

Washington had entered the final quarter trailing 65-61 as Bob McAdoo had railed the Braves from a 42-39 halftime deficit with 11 third period points. McAdoo finished with 34 points.

McAdoo had led 23-18 after one period despite nine first period points by Hayes. But the 6-foot-9 forward scored seven baskets in the second period as Washington moved ahead at the half.

Randy Smith added 21 points. Buffalo led and Gar Heard 18, while Phil Chenler and Unseld had 14 apiece for the Bullets.

Angels down White Sox

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nolan Ryan, walking nine and striking out five, staggered to his fourth consecutive triumph Sunday in pitching the California Angels to a 8-4 decision over the slumping Chicago White Sox, who dropped their fifth consecutive game.

Ryan, who did not win his fourth game of 1974 until May 10, gave up just five hits including a pair of two-run homers to Ken Henderson and Jorge Orta.

Yankees trounce Tigers

DETROIT (UPI) — Ron Blomberg capped a six-run seventh inning by hitting a three-run home run and Rudy May pitched a three-hitter Sunday to provide the New York Yankees with a 7-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The key blow of the big seventh, however, was not Blomberg's second homer of the season but rather a pinchhit double sliced to left field by Ed Herrmann.

Braves edge San Diego

ATLANTA (UPI) — Darrell Evans hit a two-run homer with Marty Perez aboard in the ninth inning to give the Atlanta Braves a 4-3 victory Sunday over the San Diego Padres.

Perez opened the inning with a double that bounced off the glove of left fielder Bobby Toland and Evans hit the first pitch off Rich Pollock high and into the bullpen in right field for his fourth homer of the season. It was Evans' third hit of the game.

Pirates blank St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Pitcher Ken Brett hammered his 10th career home run in the seventh inning Sunday and teamed with relief pitcher Dave Glutz to limit St. Louis to six hits as the Pittsburgh Pirates shut out the Cardinals 5-0.

Brett, who led major league pitchers in hitting with a .310 average last season, slammed a solo homer off Cardinal reliever Mike Garman, but it was only icing on the cake since the drive gave Pittsburgh a 5-0 advantage.

Cleveland tops Brewers

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Tom McCraw and Rico Carty each belted a two-run homer and reliever Dave LaRoche snuffed out an eighth inning rally Sunday as the Cleveland Indians snapped a two-game losing streak for a 7-4 win over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Evert whips Billie Jean

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Chris Evert took advantage of a controversial line call to tie the third set, then went on to win a 5-2 tiebreaker over Billie Jean King Sunday to capture the $50,000 first prize in the L'eggs World Series of Women's Tennis championship.

The $50,000 first prize was highest ever awarded in a women's tennis event and Miss Evert pushed her earnings for the year to $183,450 with the 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 victory.

Ms. King, leading 6-5 in the third set, stopped play to question a call by linesman Larry Eichenbaum. She said Eichenbaum signaled a ball out of bounds, then changed his call.

"He did put his arm out and I quit," Ms. King said.

Evert won the game to tie the match 6-6, then easily won the tiebreaker, as Ms. King gave her a 3-0 lead on a double fault and two shots into the net.

Ms. King briefly halted to 9-2 but then sliced two more errant shots into the net for the 5-2 victory for Miss Evert.

"In the tiebreaker, she really didn't play like Billie Jean," Miss Evert said following the afternoon nationally televised match. "She didn't have that spark in her eyes."

"This is the angriest I have ever been in my life after a tennis match," she said. "I'm so mad, I can't see straight."

"The guy just didn't have enough guts to say if he put his arm out or not. I would just kill him if I saw him. I'd wring his neck, I'm that angry," she said.

"It was just unbelievable. As far as I'm concerned, I got screwed out of the match."

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't argue with an associate who does not understand you right now, but try to find out what caused the trouble. No snap decisions.

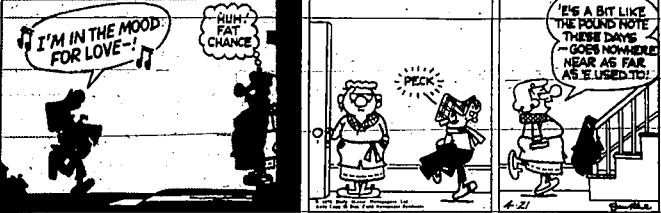

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will like to delve into just about anything that comes up to such an extent that it will be difficult later to get out of involvement, so be sure to teach to handle own personal affairs exclusively and be more practical. A good chart for business, personnel work, building, etc. Give good spiritual training early. Sports are fine here.

The fisheries folk are trying to cultivate shrimp that are two feet long. Such shrimp live in the warm freshwater streams of southern Texas. Never ate one, but understand they're tasty. Little like lobster tail. If the sea farmers are successful in raising two-foot shrimp, they'll make a lot of people happy. Shrimp is said to be the preferred seafood of the largest number of citizens - Personally, however, I'd say there's no better seafood than Dungeness crab. Olympia oysters come in second. Third is cherry-stone clams. Let's break for lunch.

SHOE LACES

Little girls almost invariably learn to tie their shoe laces at an earlier age than do little boys.

A RELATIVELY recent ordinance in Dunn, N.C., permits a husband to jail his wife for a couple of days, if she snores loudly enough to disturb him and witnesses.

TURN'S OUT "race car" is not the only thing described in two words that spells the same backwards as forwards. In the city of Yreka, Calif., somewhat back there existed the "Yreka Bayreka."

Q. "IN WHICH state do the women most outnumber the men?"
A. Massachusetts. With 100 to 93.

FLAT FEET

A worried, depressed and negative attitude can give you flat feet. Such is the claim of a doctor at the University of Southern California's Medical School. When depressed, you lose the spring in your step, says he, and tend to shuffle. This change in gait, it's averred, can result in fallen arches.

THAT AGE at which most girls marry is 18.

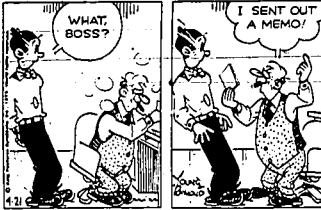

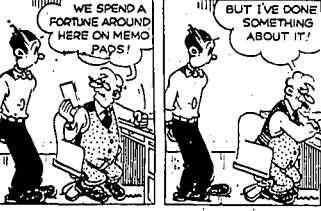

YOU SAY you're not surprised to learn that the state with the most blondes is California?

THIS WEEK'S preferred classified ads read as follows: "The Parents of Newborn Babies Club will hold its weekly meeting Saturday at 4 a.m."

IF YOU WANT to stave off the appearance of growing old, my dear, better pay particular attention to your eye makeup. No other part of the face directly shows age as do those areas around the eyes, according to the medical specialists.

MAJOR HOOPLE

markets

NEW YORK (UPI)—The resignation of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu sparked hopes for a negotiated settlement in Vietnam and carried prices higher Monday on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was heavy.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which had gained 18.93 points last week, was ahead 5.01 to 813.44 shortly before noon EDT. The blue chip indicator had lost 11.03 points Friday after an eight-day winning streak as investors took profits and short-term interest rates climbed.

Advances led declines by an almost two-to-one margin, 404 to 408 among the 1,645 issues crossing the tape.

Noon volume amounted to about 9,000,000 shares, turned over with 10,430,000 turned over in the span Friday.

Recession at low point?

N.Y. Times Service
NEW YORK—Even as the nation suffers from some of the grimmest economic conditions since the 1930's, a number of industrialists and businessmen across the country say they are convinced that the current recession is reaching its low point.
 "The worst that can happen already has," said Malcolm Baldrige, chairman of the Sewall Manufacturing Co. of Waterbury, Conn. "Most businessmen are still concerned with the present recession, but we've seen the beginning of the end."
 In Washington, the Department of Commerce reporting on new home building and industrial income levels in March found that the pace of the business downturn was slowing but disclosed no indication of an upturn.

 Reginald H. Jones, chairman of the General Electric Co., agreed that the rate of decline in the economy had clearly slackened. "We should reach bottom by the end of the second quarter, or the dark part of the third quarter," he said.
 The business men's views were sought in a canvass of executives in major American cities and in informal discussions with many more.
 The consensus indicated that although most of the businessmen agreed that the economic bottom was close at hand, few believed the upturn would be rapid.
 Indeed, the majority said the recovery was likely to be torturous and the economy would probably remain in a trough through much of 1975.

London a view chairman of General Motors-Corporation.
 Even given the customary optimism of businessmen who sometimes attempt to generate consumer confidence by picturing a rosy future, the degree of pessimism on the bottoming out of the recession was unusual.
 Many of the executives expressed concern, however, that Congress could drag the nation back into a serious economic situation if it approved too much federal spending.
 "The time in the nation is that we're in a disaster situation," said Charles H. Smith, chairman of SPCC Industries, a Cleveland foreign company. "We aren't, but the actions of Congress could make it a disaster. It's as though they took out a textbook and found all the wrong things to do and then did them."
 As an indication that the economic slide had hit hard, many industrialists pointed out that layoffs had tapered off and that in a few instances rehiring had begun.
 Some business men said they thought the public was unaware that the sharp decline in the economy was ending and warned that glowing Government statistics, gathered sometime before they were released, would continue to give the impression that conditions were worsening.

'Shortage' blamed for price rise

IDaho FALLS, Idaho (UPI)
 An artificial potato shortage has been blamed for the more than doubling of potato prices in the last three weeks, the manager at the B.T. French Co., said Friday.
 Ralph Carlberg, the accounting manager of the potato processing company with a plant in Idaho Falls, said prices have gone up because growers are causing an artificial shortage.
 Three weeks ago, potatoes were bringing $1 to $1.35 per hundredweight for the grower. In some cases, the price has gone up to $2.25.
 "Every price is reasonable at certain supply and demand levels," Carlberg said. "But I think that the growers have holed back and have created an artificial shortage."
 Carlberg said the B.T. French Co. purchased 190,000 hundredweight of potatoes at $2 a hundredweight, and he said officials were "very surprised" when growers raised their prices. But he added the company would not lose money because it would get the money back from consumers at the other end.
 "The growers held on to the supply to force the field prices up," he said.
 But there is still a lot of potatoes in the country and I'm curious whether they'll get them all moved in time."

Blood pressure tests available

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has proclaimed May as High Blood Pressure Month to draw attention to a serious but often neglected health problem.

Blood pressure testing is available in the Magic Valley at five different locations.

High blood pressure, or hypertension, can lead to heart failure stroke or kidney failure if left untreated, according to Dr. Fritz R. Dixon, bureau of preventive medicine chief, Idaho Department Health and Welfare.

Health and Welfare officials estimate about 10 per cent of Idaho's population, or 77,000 persons, have high blood pressure, and of those, 38,500 don't know they have it.

Hypertension frequently has no symptoms, Dixon said. "A person can feel healthy, look great and still have it. But eventually high blood pressure will take its toll unless it is controlled."

High blood pressure could kill 250,000 Americans this year, according to Dixon.

He urged Idahoans to check with their family physicians or take advantage of special clinics to have their blood pressure taken.

"Having your blood pressure taken is quick, easy and painless," he said.

Clinics in the Magic Valley are located in Twin Falls, South Central District Health Department, by telephone appointment; Jerome, Senior Citizen's Center, first Friday each month, 9 a.m. to noon; Shoshone, Senior Citizen Center, Tuberculosis Hospital, last Thursday each month, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

GE plans horse races

GLENN'S FERRY — Horse Races will be sponsored at the Elmore County Fairgrounds, Glenn's Ferry, Saturday at 1 p.m.

Admission will be free.

Contestants should enter events by 11:30 a.m., including girls' barrel races, saddle horse races, Quarter Horse races and Thoroughbred events. There will be an ICA Rodeo School following the races.

The day is being sponsored by the Three Island Riding Club and the Fair Acres Racing Association.

Thermal use cited

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — A geothermal power plant will be completed at Raft River by 1977 that will provide electricity for 5,000 persons, the Idaho Academy of Sciences was told Saturday.

R. C. Stoker told the group at their meeting at the College of Idaho in Caldwell that one site has been completed, with a well drilled to 4,520 feet. A second drilling operation is to begin next week.

Stoker said a rate of flow of 60 gallons a minute and a water temperature of 273 degrees were disappointing to developers, but the power plant is still expected to produce 10 megawatts of power.

Stoker is with the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory at the Atomic Energy Commission site near Arco. He is also associated with Aerojet Nuclear Corp., the company developing the geothermal sites.
